A Discussion with Pima County Supervisors Sylvia Lee and Rex Scott

Monday, February 12, 6:00 PM - Saguaro Center, Acacia Rm

Sylvia M. Lee, Ph.D.

Pima County Supervisor Sylvia Lee was selected on December 19, 2023 to fill a one-year vacancy representing District 3. As a native of Tucson, she attended TUSD schools and received her associate's degree from Pima Community College (PCC), baccalaureate and master's degrees from the University of Arizona and Ph.D. in Educational Leadership and Policy Studies from Arizona State University.

Sylvia's career in higher education at universities and community colleges spanned over 30 years. She served as president at two PCC campuses. She was elected to a six-year term on the PCC Governing Board from January 2013 to December 2018, also representing District 3.

Rex Scott

Pima County Supervisor Rex Scott was elected to represent District One in November of 2020 and took office at the start of 2021. He has been married to a fellow career educator since 1994 and they are the parents of adult twins. For most of those years, the family has lived in District One and the twins are graduates of Mountain View High School in the Marana Unified School District.

Supervisor Scott grew up in Athens, Ohio and earned two bachelor's degrees from Ohio University, which is in Athens. In 1987, at the age of 24, he became the first Ohio University student elected to serve on Athens City Council. He was re-elected in 1989, chaired the Finance Committee in his second term and joined with two of his colleagues to start the city's curbside recycling program.

In 1991, Supervisor Scott moved to Pima County to take a position teaching social studies at Flowing Wells Junior High School, one of three schools in District One that he served during his career as a public-school educator. In 2000, Supervisor Scott began his 19-year career as an administrator working in both middle and high schools.
